MAKING YOUR WILL

The Building of God's Church is an ongoing Mission. Please remember the Church and "in particular" your Parish in your will.

Little House on the Prairie " ran on NBC from September 11, 1974 to March 21, 1983. Each episode touched the human soul with themes of family, faith, and a rugged perseverance through the battles and blessings of life. The series was based on the diary books of Laura Ingalls Wilder in the 1870's - 1880's located mostly in Walnut Grove, Minnesota. Essential characters were Charles ( played by the late Michael Landon who died of cancer in 1991 at the age of 54 ), his wife Caroline played by Karen Grassle ( seems silly now but in my dating days I was dreaming to meet a wife that was like Caroline : a pillar of love and devotion to her husband ), daughters ( played by Melissa Gilbert and Melissa Sue Anderson ), the Oleson family who ran a mercantile exchange in town, and the late actors Merlin Olsen playing Jonathan Garvey ( once starred with the old Los Angeles Rams football team ) plus Dabbs Greer as the Reverend Robert Alden ( I received his autograph shortly before he died ). Recently, I watched a 1977 episode from the show called "Going Home. " Opening with a sense of blessings for the Ingall's family, a horrendous tornado destroys both home and fertile farmlands for survival. In despair, Charles asks Caroline why God would allow such a terrible circumstance to strike his family of faith. Her wise response was that their faith was being tested and purified. Reverend Alden reflects this same insight to daughter Laura when she poses the same question. In a contemporary culture that does not encourage these types of wholesome programs in the prime time scheduling format, thankfully nostalgia stations on cable do. The values of iconic series like " Little House " continue to inspire, and was a great source of reflection for me in the middle 1980's when I was discerning seriously the priesthood ( despite still being in a dating relationship with a fine woman ). The antidote of faith and family to address the struggles of life that beset themselves upon each of us, plus the inevitable blessings, are at the core of what Laura Ingalls Wilder journalized about 150 years ago. These human yearnings seeking guidance through the pains of life, we all must endure, reminded me of a magazine entry in " Christian Today " on October 9, 2014. Reflect on these repeated words : " We all have our days where we feel we can't survive. Sometimes dreams are shattered, friendships may fall apart. Loved one's may hurt us. Finances may worry us. Sickness may overtake us. We may even lose people we love. But God will always be there to guide us through even the toughest of times. Never lose faith. Hold onto hope. Trust in God always. " How do we people of faith integrate all of these life lessons amidst the lemons and lemonade that existence throws at us ? The starting point must a gentle spirit of prayerfulness, such as the rosary and meditating quietly. The sacraments nourish that prayer life. ( A holy nun who cares deeply about me and my vocation recently wrote me : " Prayer is love. It is love expressed in speech, and love expressed in silence. To put it another way, prayer is the meeting of two loves : the love of God and our love. " ). We also need really good friends who will not abandon us, even when there are conflicts. These are friends and family who care about our spiritual soul. There must be a disciplined interior life even when we face pain, indecision, anxiety and loneliness. Putting these good packages together require the grace of God. I search and yearn as do you. Special people will join me later this year in a journey to South Dakota to see homesteads and museums in historical memory of " Little House on the Prairie. " We will also see Mount Rushmore, Badlands National Park, and even Custer's Battlefield. But, the spirit of strong endurance in faith projected by Laura Ingalls Wilder will be the overall trajectory of what inspires us. I hope to grow spiritually through the experience, and bring it home to you. Blessings. Father Bill
